“ Eric Torres. A name that disguised a true lion at heart. I met Eric at the beginning of 9th grade year 2006 at a neighborhood party. After our meeting I found out we attended the same high school. Throughout high school, we stuck together. He was a short white-completed boy, I am a 6' 4" 300 lbs. Hispanic. I would tell him everyday, "if someone gives you a hard time, let me know please" since I hated bullies. After 2 years of friendship, he asked if I could let him move in to my mothers house until he got on his feet. My mother happily agreed. My parents see him as one of their own. this really SOLIDIFIED our friendship as bothers from other mothers. We got into many fiascos together during school, nonetheless we made it and graduated. After high school he had saved enough money to move away from the neighborhood that had caused him so much pain. He got a small 1 bedroom apartment.. Eric was still blooming and finding his calling, which was in the restaurant and hospitality business. I will never find another friend like him. He knew the real me and I knew the real him. I had talked to him 2 days before he passed and I talk to him everyday after. I'm Going to mourn you until I join you! I love you brother! See you soon 'cuz!

“ I, too, had the pleasure of knowing Eric from his time at the Houston Racquet Club. Even very early in the morning, he had a smile on his face and a kind word for everyone who came through the door. Knowing this about Eric, I am certain he made the same impression to others who knew him. I am saddened by this loss and send my sincere prayers to his family and loved ones. Sincerely, Mrs. Garcia

“ I had the pleasure of meeting Eric two months ago. He was pure light. A happy person, fun to be around and so caring. The world is darker without him. It's so tragic, he was planning to make changes. He was always happy and smiling when we saw him. He didn't deserve this. He was so ambitious and wanted to remodel his apartment. In the little time my husband and I have known him he really did make an impression on us. He has left a hole in our heart so i cannot imagine the pain anyone else is going through if they had the pleasure of knowing him longer. Rest with Angels my friend. You are in a better place. Ask God to stop taking the good ones we still need some light in the world. Til we meet again. I wish I knew some of his friends and family. We would love to see some pics of him. He was a beautiful human being. To his parents- You raised a wonderful young man. I pray for God to comfort your pain.

“ Eric was a special employee of the Houston Racquet Club for five years, a wonderful young man! He greeted the early crowd at the fitness center which he manned the reception help desk, arriving before 5 am each weekday. This news of his passing saddens all the members and employees of the club who knew him. I will pray for his Family and his extended club family for comfort!

“ I knew Eric from the Houston Racquet Club as he worked the front desk early in the mornings. He was the first person I saw every morning at 5:45 a.m. - and he always had a smile on his face. So kind hearted and always willing to help the members. I'm so sad that he is no longer with us but know he is helping others in heaven. May he be remembered for his kind hearted and warm smile.
Sincerely, Mrs. Levy
