“ Everyday is more heartbreaking I know you're watching over us and hopefully proud. It's still hard to realize the man who raised me won't be the one to give me away or be there when I need him. I forgot the sound our your voice and the feelings of your hugs but one thing I could never forget is the way you loved us all of with gentle hands, even if you were mad. We've all had ups and downs but we solved them differently. I wished this was solved differently. You can't change the past though, no matter how much you want to. I love and miss you, fly high and touch the stars.
